

Family, Marriage and Kinship

- ii) In South Indian patrilineal societies, all relatives in one's own generation are divided into two categories, namely, the pangali and mama-machchinan.
- iii) To refer to one's grandfather on both the mother's side and father's side, in Tamil, there is only one term, i.e., tata. This is an example of merging of sex distinction existing between the parents of one's parents.

- i) The three preferential rules of marriage in South India are
 - a) a man should marry his elder sister's daughter.
 - b) a man should marry his father's sister's daughter.
 - c) a man should marry his mother's brother's daughter.
- ii) It is not usual to find village exogamy in South India. This is so because in South India, rules of marriage allow marital alliances within close kin groups.
